Dear Margaret,
Thank you for returning my story, & hope that you found it helpful in sensing what it was like to fly over Germany with Bob as captain.
As I said in my letter it was not written as a historical document as such, but was a record of what the feelings and pressures were for us all.

I have no objection at all to your letting Dr Susan Palmer have a copy of the story - she will probably be best able to understand the reactions to stress which we, living through it, were quite unaware. I was glad to read that Bob is as well as we can hope; give him our love and best wishes each time you see him - and we hope that more of the souvenirs will come to light as you sort through his possessions

Did you manage to write to the Est Republican in Bao-b-Duc - & have written to Yves Bannet (the schoolboy who damaged through the smouldering wreckage the following day) and told him of your interests - he will no doubt pursue his own enquiries there as he is as enthusiastic as ever to unravel our crew story. So perhaps another piece of "investigative journalism" will be taking place.

bw regards to you and to your family.
